Even though this is the holiday season, I'm sorry that you are busy. I, too am trying to run a business, and at the height of the retail season, it would be so much better if we just got this resolved quickly.

Regarding:
Product: GiantProfitAds.Info
Date of Purchase: December 7, 2013
Amount of Purchase: $125 USD
Paypal Transaction ID #4XS256621T9445313

If the administrative ID and password was sent, I have not received it. I have verified that there are no messages from AdminForFree or David Smith in any of my email accounts, including spam filters.

I would like to continue with this transaction, but my advisors have provided me with both business reasons and tax implications that require this transaction to be completed by December 28, 2013, including the provisioning of hosting, shares in the co-op, and connections to the AFF Super Networks.

I was advised by counsel that since it has been over two weeks and I have not yet taken delivery of aforementioned product, I am to request a total refund. On advice of counsel, if refund is not issued by December 28, 2013, I am to file a formal complaint with Paypal.

My advisors tend to be a little heavy handed, but then, I pay them a lot of money for their advice.

That being said, I'm hoping that this was an oversight that can be resolved quickly, and I was hoping to resolve this without the need to escalate. Provide me with the admin information, an invoice for hosting services, co-op, and connections to AFF SuperNetworks so we can move forward.

I was also advised that any fees, purchases, commissions, or rewards due to the owner of GiantProfitAds.Info since December 7, 2013 be credited to my account. I have had ads sitting there unapproved since entry, so it does not look as though any administrative oversight for this site has been happening.

Any communication regarding this matter is to be sent to this email address: richard.moyer.1953@gmail.com
